Walkie-talkie had a cracking view

EXCLUSIVE!

Miranda Kerr topless!

Model's wardrobe malfunction!

→ NEVER LET it be said that supermodels are selfish. Sure, they're paid large amounts of lolly to wear swimsuits and look into the middle distance, but as Miranda Kerr ably demonstrates, they like to give back, too – in this case, a flash of her exquisitely perky breasts!

Ms Kerr was in Miami when her nips "slipped", but like a true Aussie, she shrugged it off with a laugh and – possibly – six tinnies in the back of her "ute". Bonzer effort all round, Miranda!

"Can someone help?
I can't lift my arms!"

YOU BEAUTIES!

"Is it me or is it a bit nippy?"

STRENGTH!

"Burrrppp!
Easy!"

OOPS!

Freefall karate!

Man duffs up a dozen blocks of wood at 120mph!

→ WE ALL have dreams. For David Beckham, it was to captain England. For Neil Armstrong, it was to saunter on the moon. And for Virginian army officer and karate blackbelt Ernie Torres, it was to smash up a record number of wooden blocks while freefalling.

And blow us if he didn't go and do it, walloping through 12 sturdy boards while plummeting to the ground quickly. Meanwhile, another tree met its maker, giving up its precious wood for one man's vanity.

WORDS: RORY BUCKERIDGE PHOTOS: CATERS

"Watch carefully, students, for you never know when wood might attack!"

DROP & CHOP!

Amazing face transplant!

Polish chap loses his face in a terrible accident. Gets a new one, weeks later!

IT WAS, incredibly, just three weeks between this unnamed 33-year-old Polish chap here having his face ripped off and both jaws smashed in an industrial accident, and him having a new face stitched on by docs in a pioneering operation. Usually it would take months to prep.

In a 27-hour operation, our man's face, jaws, palate and the bottom of his eye sockets were reconstructed, before the donor face was whipped off a dead chap in the room next door and attached. And just six days later, the patient was cracking thumbs ups for the camera and showing off his impressive arm tattoo.

BEFORE!

1 THE PREP

Out cold on the table, the patient awaits the beginning of the procedure to attach a whole new face.

2 IT'S QUITE A JOB

As well as losing most of the skin around his face, our man also lost his jaw, nose and eye socket.

3 FACE OFF

Surgeons mark out then cleanly remove the area of the face and skin that they aim to replace.

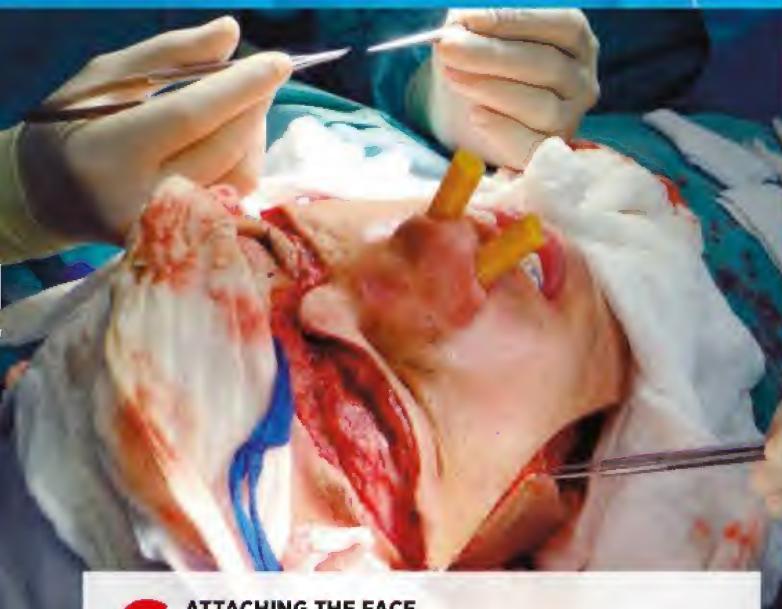

4 THE FACE

In a four-hour op, veins, arteries, skin and subcutaneous fat are removed from the (dead) donor.

5 SURGERY BEGINS

The face is lowered carefully into position. Initial work begins on attaching the blood vessels.

6 ATTACHING THE FACE

Docs now work on attaching the nose, cheek, cheekbones, upper and lower jaw and palate.

7 POINT OF NO RETURN

Face muscles and nerves are now attached with microsurgery and the skin is sewn on.

8 FACE ON

Medics now adjust the old and new bones and muscles. A better fit means quicker recovery chances.

9 ON THE ROAD TO RECOVERY

Days later, the patient is on the mend and thumbs-upping the camera. Now begins months of physio.

EXCLUSIVE!

It's TOWIE's new girl!

Meet lovely Ferne McCann, new girl on the Essex block!

→ A NEW recruit in TOWIE is always cause for celebration in the Nuts office/areas up and down the country where men congregate. Producers rarely put a foot wrong in their search for teak-skinned examples of fine Essex breeding, and Ferne is no exception.

The 22-year-old hair stylist is Billie and Sam Faiers' BFF, main squeeze of Chloe Sims' brother Charlie and is set to "ruffle some feathers" during series nine of the hard-hitting documentary series. Strangely, the most maverick way to shake up TOWIE would be to attend parties make-up free and practise monogamy, but where's the fun in that, eh?

WORDS: RORY BUCKERIDGE
PHOTOS: CHELSEA WHITE/LIPSTICK SYNDICATION

MARBS SPECIAL!

Ferne made her TOWIE debut in the show's annual excursion to Marbella last Sunday.

World's biggest Lego model!

Grown ups build life-size, two tonne X-wing fighter! You should see the size of the Death Star!

WORDS: RICKY BUCKRIDGE
PHOTOS: PA PHOTOS, GETTY IMAGES, REX FEATURES

→ YOU WANT the facts, right? This is a 1:1, life-size Lego model of a Star Wars X-wing fighter. It was built using 5,335,200 bricks and took 32 people 17,336 hours to piece together. It's 13.1m long and 3.35m high, making it 42 times the size of the Lego toy it's based on. Now the why. Because they could, silly. Next!

Good cod almighty!

Man lands 1.6m, 47kg monster fish!

→ AFTER HALF an hour of cod, modern warfare, German fisherman Michael Eisele landed this record-breaking 47kg cod, ten miles off the coast of Norway. And now the 1.6-metre fish has had its chips, it'll be stuffed and mounted in a Norwegian fisheries museum. Still, we're sure you'll be able to see it on the net.

COD DAMN!

"Don't mind him - he's only being friendly!"

Aston rocked
a terrific "Scouse brow"

The last great Aston Vantage!

Aston Martin 'retire' their V12 Vantage with a Ferrari 458 and Lambo Gallardo-eater!

- With a maximum speed of 205mph, this new Aston V12 Vantage S sets its sights on outgunning Ferrari's fantastico 458 Italia and Lamborghini's Gallardo - which both run out of puff at 202mph.
- Continuing Aston Martin's quiet 100th birthday celebrations, the V12 S is the next model to receive a spruce-up, strict diet and hike in power. Now, with the exception of the £1.1m One-77, this is the fastest road-going Aston.

- The grille is now moody dark carbon fibre with titanium mesh, and the horizontal alloy bars have been binned for diagonal

"I deny all rumours that I have a yellow streak"

"Sorry, boss, we didn't have time to paint the wheels"

slats, pilfered from the CC100 speedster concept.

- The bonnet vents, front chin splitter, boot-lid spoiler lip and rear diffuser are also hewn from carbon fibre.
- From the depths comes the signature V12 soundtrack, which gurgles through a new exhaust system in wrinkle-finish black. Borrowed from the One-77 hypercar, it's smaller and lighter, but most importantly, also bellows like a lion with laryngitis. It also gets a black roof and part-painted boot lid.

- For the interior, Aston has specified lashings of carbon fibre again. Alongside the trademark exposed hand-stitching, the V12 S cockpit gets optional lightweight carbon seats, two grades of leather to choose from and the chance to order the door pulls and dash fascia in fibre.

- By using the new Vanquish's 6.0-litre V12, the S now has 565bhp of meat to chew on. The gearbox is the latest version of Aston's hydraulic paddle-operated "Sportshift III". Gone is the choice of manual, which is a shame (as it was just lush).

- No official 0-62 has been released, but the outgoing V12 Vantage did it in 4.1 seconds. With improved power and less flab, the S will be a sub-4 second car. And the price? Around £140k. Trust us, that represents value for money.

"Perfect camouflage for the custard mines, Bond!"

Bulldozer rampage!

It's the world's slowest tear up!

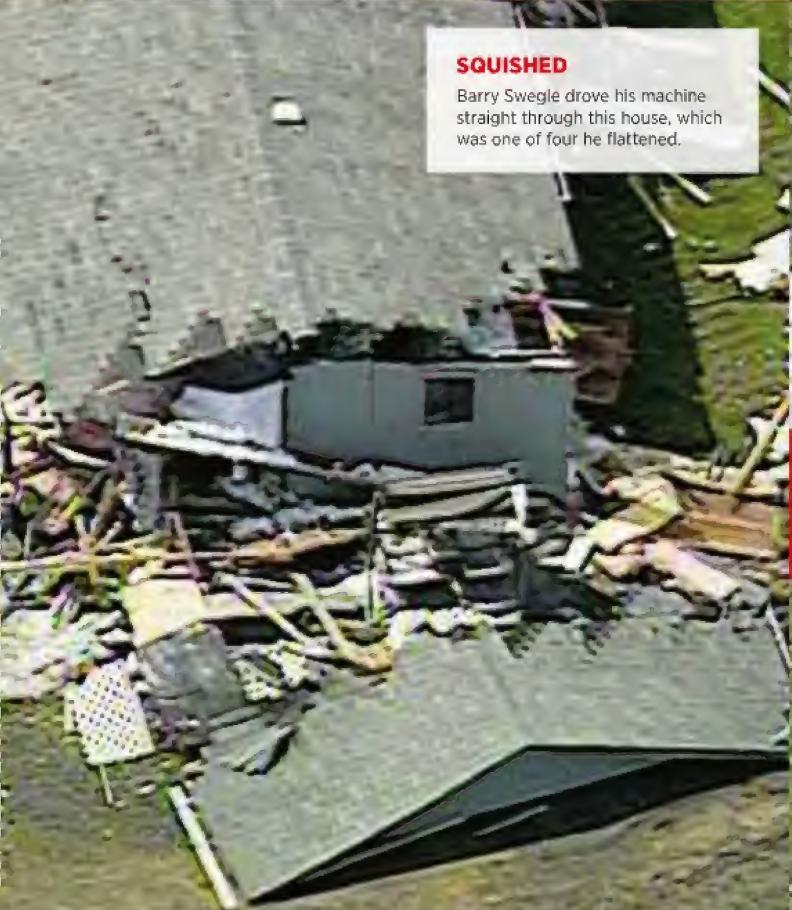

→ "GET SOME cops! With guns!" was the frantic 911 call when 51-year-old Seattle chap Barry Swegle went postal with a bulldozer. A row with a neighbour saw grumpy Barry climb aboard his toolled-up tractor and slowly flatten four houses, two sheds, a pick-up truck, lawn mower, fences and other property, causing nearly £200k worth of damage.

No one was injured in the walking-pace attack but then, even Stephen Hawking could probably escape a bulldozer ambush, you'd think.

SQUISHED

Barry Swegle drove his machine straight through this house, which was one of four he flattened.

WEAPON OF CHOICE

Barry used his 50-year-old International Harvester TD-25 crawler to wreak the destruction.

Is this the PS4?

Internet chaps piece together Sony's next console

→ LAST WEEK
Sony released a super-teasy vid of its lovely, new PS4. Totally blurred out, it featured subliminally fast flashes of bits of the box.

So, of course, the internet has pieced those together into a Frankenstein's monster console which may, or may not, represent what the PS4 looks like when it's officially unveiled at games expo E3 on 11 June. Erm. Ta-daaa!

'The paramedic was picking lumps of fat up off the floor!'

Student rides bike into crash barrier! With hideous consequences!

→ EIGHTEEN-YEAR-OLD
aerospace student
Robert Davies was riding his bike down a steep hill in Aberbargoed, South Wales, when he realised that at the bottom of the hill was a sharp bend.

"As I turned into the bend, I lost control of the bike, went off to the left, and decided to have a Superman session into the crash barrier," Robert tells Nuts. "I was with three of my mates when it happened. One of them sped off on his bike to get an ambulance, another was jumping around in a panic like an idiot, and the other one just sat there laughing at me!

"When the paramedic turned up she thought I was exaggerating, until she saw the size of the gash in my leg. After that, she had to go around picking lumps of fat and tissue up off the floor!"

"At the hospital, the doctors were surprised by how deep the cut was. It was six inches across and two inches deep. The most alarming thing was that they said I almost hit a main artery. I had a bunch of stitches inside and 14 outside — after they'd shoved all the crap back inside me!"

"After five-and-a-half hours, four local anaesthetic injections and lots of prodding around the wound, the most painful thing turned out to be the bloody tetanus jab!"

Role-play sex woes!

The girl I've been seeing wants to try some full-on role-play, but I'm quite shy. How can I handle whatever it is she's going to chuck at me?

Is using lube too rude?

I keep reading about how using lube in the bedroom will improve my sex life, but I'm way too shy to buy it. I live with my parents so I'd feel awkward keeping it in the house. Are there any everyday alternatives that are safe to use?

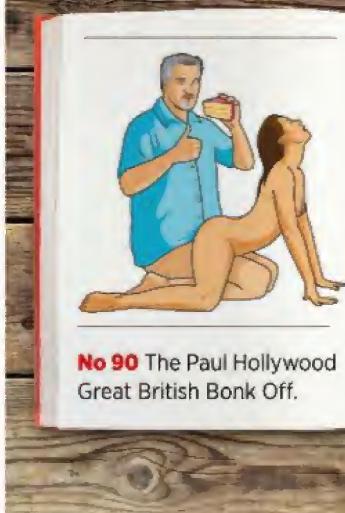

DAVID via email

When it comes to putting things on your "special area", you don't want to risk anything going wrong. Buy some of the proper stuff. It's more accessible than it used to be. You can hide the bottle with your porno stash.

THREE GUYS are drinking in a pub when a drunk staggers in, points at the guy in the middle and shouts, "I did your mum this morning!"

Everyone expects a fight, but the guy ignores him, so the drunk wanders off. Ten minutes later he comes back, points at the same guy, and says, "Your mum's the best sex in town!"

Again, the guy refuses to take the bait. Ten minutes later, the drunk comes back for a third time and announces, "Your mum loves it!"

Finally, the guy responds, "I think it's time you went home, dad, you're drunk!"

"You've been such great statues, I'm going to bring you to life for 30 minutes, in which time you can do anything you like."

The angel brought the statues to life and they dashed for the bushes, giggling. Soon after, they emerged. "You still have 15 minutes," said the angel.

CHLOE SIMS

“I was very naughty as a Playboy Bunny!”

Hello Chloe!
Welcome back to Nuts. Enjoying the shoot?
Hello! It's great to be back. I love
Nuts shoots. They're a whole lot of fun, aren't they?

Thanks! So TOWIE's back.
What saucy shenanigans will you be getting up to?
I think it's going to be really exciting this season. I don't know how much I'm supposed to say about it though.

With shows like The Valleys, do you feel pressure to ramp up the rudeness?

Not at all. Our shows are very different. TOWIE has quite a young following, so we try to keep it real and quite clean.

What's the naughtiest thing you've done on camera?

I don't think I've done anything too risqué yet! I was much naughtier when I was a Playboy Bunny.

This being TOWIE, if you met a bloke outside the show, would you have to keep it under wraps, then pretend you met him during filming?

Maybe. But nothing's forced on the cast members. We've all been through all those genuine little arguments and squabbles.
Everyone does! Also, you might meet someone who doesn't like the limelight.

Have you ever looked outside of the Essex gene pool? Could you date a man with bad hair and terrible teeth?

Er, no. Not unless he was really, really, really funny.

Kirk Norcross recently boasted about sleeping with over 1,000 women. Did he ever hit on you?
When we first met there was a bit of flirting, but I don't think he realised I'm older than him!

How the hell does he find time for all those conquests? Is he telling porkies?

When the lads from TOWIE go out, it's quite shocking! ►

"If I can get away with just wearing a bra, I will!"

Girls throw themselves at them. I think his dad owning a nightclub did him a favour. As for not having the time, how long do you think it takes?

Touché! A recent survey said that girls from Made In Chelsea spent an average of £128,000 more than you lot on clothes.

Who looks better?

Us, obviously! I've noticed that on Made In Chelsea, they wear the same clothes a lot. But I suppose if you spend £131,480 on clothes, you want to get your wear out of them.

How much do you spend on absurdly sexy undies?

I don't always wear underwear, so not much. If I can get away with wearing just a bra, I will!

Talk us through the art of bikini shopping. We're doing some research on the matter.

They have to fit properly, for a start. I have quite big boobs so that can be tricky. Some girls turn bikini wearing into a competition, so you need to stand out from the crowd.

Do you need to wear a special big-boob bikini?

Ha-ha! Actually, on the way here today I popped into a little shop I know that does bespoke beachwear, so there!

Amy Childs and Gemma Collins have their own products. What would you endorse?

I already have tanning lotion and eyelashes coming out, my book was published recently, and I have a website called Starship Boutique.

How about bringing out Chloe Sims' ladies' gyms?

I'm not much of a gym person. I wouldn't know how to use any of the equipment!

Chloe Sims' chrome rims? Can they be pink?

Maybe. OK, finally, how about Chloe Sims' fake limbs?

Ha! I don't think I'd want to go down that road. Let's just leave it at boobs!

E.T. II

Nocturnal Fears

WHO FILM: E.T. THE EXTRA-TERRESTRIAL
DIRECTED BY STEVEN SPIELBERG
PRODUCED BY RANDY HARRIS
SCREENPLAY BY RANDY HARRIS & KATHLEEN KUEHN

22 BLOCKBUSTERS THAT NEVER HAPPENED!

Check out these mega-movies that never quite made it...

1 E.T. II: Nocturnal Fears 1985

The gist: The lovable extra terrestrial is hunted by, er, not-so-lovable extra terrestrials!

Within weeks of E.T.'s release in 1982, Steven Spielberg had put together a nine-page outline for a sequel, in which evil aliens come to Earth on the hunt for E.T., whose real name is revealed to be Zrek. These rampaging space b*stards terrorise Elliott for information on Zrek's whereabouts, and right at the end, Zrek turns up to kick space ass. On realising it might be the worst idea ever, Spielberg scrapped it.

2 Superman Lives 1998

The gist: Nicolas Cage sporting a cape and yet another hairdo!

With a script by Kevin "Clerks" Smith and oddball Tim Burton lined up as director, the late-'90s reboot of Superman looked like a surefire winner – even with the slightly crackers casting choice of mad-eyed, drawling-voiced, nostril-flaring Nicolas Cage in the Man Of Steel role. Endless rewrites and a whopping £30million later, however, Superman Lives was canned – a shame, as it would've at least been less of a snooze-fest than 2006's Superman Returns.

3 The Sandman 2004

The gist: The ruler-of-dreams comic-book character hits the big time!

One of the biggest comic book series of the '90s, The Sandman by Neil Gaiman, charted the weird, creepy adventures of the ruler of dreams. There have been several near-miss attempts at filming the story, most recently by Gaiman himself. He pitched his dark and thoughtful vision to studio execs, the studio execs pitched their brashly violent version back at him. Deadlock ensued and The Sandman remains in limbo.

4 Alien 3: The Lost Tale Of The Wooden Planet 1990

The gist: Space monks vs space monsters.

On a planet made of wood!

There was, of course, a third Alien movie, but it was very nearly a different film entirely. Set on a man-made wooden planet populated entirely by monks, it was intended to inject a little medieval flavour into the sci-fi series. The movie was green-lit, Sigourney Weaver signed on, production began – but the studio panicked and writer/director Vincent Ward walked.

5 BioShock 2010

The gist: The darkest, goriest, sexiest videogame adaptation ever!

Announced to great fanfare in 2008, the movie of the hit game was to be directed by Gore "Pirates Of The Caribbean" Verbinski, have a budget of £200m, and boast 18-certificate levels of gore and sex. But then Watchmen flopped, leaving studios wary of 18-certificate films that cost bazillions. The budget was slashed to £80m, Verbinski walked, and the makers of the game pulled the plug. Game over.

6 Grayskull 2006

The gist: Much-anticipated Masters Of The Universe reboot for He-Man!

The Masters Of The Universe reboot – designed to erase painful memories of the pretty rank 1987 outing starring Dolph Lundgren – has been on/off so many times, many hardcore He-Man fans (yes, such people exist) have lost all hope. First, John "Face/Off" Woo signed on to direct, then the director of Kung Fu Panda, then the guy who did G.I. Joe: Retaliation. But don't despair, retro superhero fans – at least there's Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles next year.

7 24 2010

The gist: Kiefer Sutherland's chief terrorist stopper, Jack Bauer, has another rubbish day, on a much bigger screen!

When 24 wrapped up its run in 2010, a send-off movie was announced. But progress has since slowed to such a crawl, the film's director, Antoine Fuqua (Training Day, Olympus Has Fallen), declared in March, "I don't think it's going to happen – certainly not with me." Although, in April, Kiefer Sutherland announced he's still keen. Let it go, Kiefer!

8 Wonder Woman 2007

The gist: The hotpants-wearing lass with the lasso makes it big!

DC Comics' battling goddess looked all set for a big-screen outing, with king of the geeks Joss "Avengers Assemble" Whedon behind the camera, and hotties from Katie Holmes to Mischa Barton lining up to pull on the hotpants – until Warner Bros rejected Whedon's script. Still, Drive director Nicolas Winding Refn recently expressed an interest in squeezing Christina Hendricks into the WW suit. We bet he did. ►

UNMADE MOVIES

9 Ghostbusters 3 1999-now

The gist: Who's not gonna be in your ghostly threequel? Bill Murray!

Dan Aykroyd has been hawking his Ghostbusters threequel round Hollywood since the '90s, with his main stumbling block being that Bill Murray is unwilling to reprise his role as Peter Venkman – although he did say he'd agree to return if he was killed off within the first 30 minutes. Aykroyd now reckons the movie will start shooting, minus Murray, next summer. Sure.

10 X-Men Origins: Magneto 2009

The gist: Loads of levitating cars!

This X-Men spin-off/prequel had David S Goyer (writer of the new Superman film) in the director's chair, and Sir Ian McKellen reprising his role as Magneto, whose origin would be told through flashbacks to the Second World War, when the future villain was imprisoned by the Nazis. But a Hollywood writers' strike delayed the movie and the storyline was absorbed into X-Men: First Class.

11 George A Romero's Resident Evil 2001

The gist: The original zombie bloke takes on a gaming classic!

Although we did get a Resident Evil movie (plus four sequels), the job of writing and directing the survival horror adaptation originally fell to George A Romero, the man who basically invented zombie movies with 1968's Night Of The Living Dead. Unusually, Capcom rejected Romero's script for sticking too closely to the plot of the game. "They wanted something closer to a war movie," said Romero.

12 Ei8ht 1999

The gist: Morgan Freeman takes on more sicko psychos!

Ace thriller Se7en didn't exactly cry out for a sequel: one character is dead, one is retired, one is insane and one's head is in a box. But an unrelated script about a clairvoyant cop was rejigged by the guy who wrote Ocean's Eleven so it was about Morgan Freeman's Detective Somerset, who's now magic. Ei8ht never happened but the script it would have been based on hits screens next year as Solace.

13 The Works 1986

The gist: Overly cute robot Wall-E comes to the big screen, approximately 25 years too early!

Beating Pixar's Toy Story by more than a decade, The Works would have been the first entirely CGI movie made – a wacky sci-fi comedy set in the distant future about a malfunctioning computer, The Works, that triggers a massive war, but then, realising what it's done, sets out to repopulate a devastated earth with robots. Production began in 1979, but seven years later, following seemingly endless delays, financial problems and technological meltdowns, just ten minutes of the proposed 90 minutes of footage had been produced, and the whole disastrous shebang was finally abandoned. The Works did speed CGI's evolution along, however, and many of those involved went on to join Pixar.

14 Jurassic Park IV 2006

The gist: Attack of the super-fearsome manusaurus rex!

A fourth Jurassic Park is scheduled to be with us some time next year, but it'll be a completely different prehistoric beast from the one we almost got in 2006. Written by Oscar winner William "The Departed" Monahan, the "lost" Jurassic Park IV focused on human-dinosaur hybrids that looked like the xenomorphs from the Alien movies, except even more terrifying. Unsurprisingly, studio executives decided that permanently traumatising loads of pre-teen cinema-goers probably wasn't the way to go.

15 Spider-Man 4 Unknown

The gist: Anne Hathaway as a rubber-catsuited thief – again!

Even though director Sam Raimi himself didn't like Spider-Man 3 much, it did make a ton of cash, and so studio execs signed him up for a fourth outing, with Tobey Maguire battling the Vulture (played by John Malkovich) and the Black Cat (Anne Hathaway, who went on to play the remarkably similar Catwoman in The Dark Knight Rises). Raimi couldn't pull his story together in time, however, and eventually advised the studio to hire another director to do a reboot instead. His advice was, of course, finally taken, with The Amazing Spider-Man coming out last year and a follow-up due in 2014.

The gist: Run, Forrest, run... this time in the '80s and '90s!

Gump & Co would have shown us what annoying man-child Forrest Gump got up to during the '80s and '90s – the plot had him meeting Princess Diana, tearing down the Berlin Wall, and fighting in the Gulf War. The script was completed the day before 9/11. Following the attack on the Twin Towers, Tom Hanks decided audiences probably weren't in the mood for life being like a box of chocolates, and it was dropped.

Y: The Last Man

2009
The gist:
Manpocalypse Now

– a comic-book adaptation!

One of the most successful comic books of the noughties, Y: The Last Man depicted what might happen if every male mammal on Earth, except for one twentysomething man, suddenly died, leaving behind an otherwise all-female planet. Shia LaBeouf signed on as the planet's last dude. Meanwhile, DJ Caruso (Disturbia, Eagle Eye) was set to direct – but then, for unknown reasons, the studio got last-minute cold feet. Film-industry rumours suggest that Y: The Last Man is not dead just yet, however. Let's hope not – with an almost all-female cast as a necessity it would surely be worth checking out.

17

Gladiator 2 2005

The gist: Maximus Meridius goes time-travelling!

Although Maximus died at the end of Gladiator, that didn't deter Russell Crowe and director Ridley Scott from hiring Aussie musician Nick Cave to write a sequel. Cave's crazy script has Maximus time-travelling through key conflicts in history – the Battle of Hastings, Vietnam etc – climaxing with landing a job at the Pentagon. The studio said no. Actually, it was probably more like, "Noooooo!"

18

Neon Genesis Evangelion 2010

The gist: Super ultra-robo team assemble!

The giant-fighting-robot show to end all giant-fighting-robot shows, animated TV series Neon Genesis Evangelion is huge in Japan. In the wake of Transformers' success, an English-language, live-action movie was set into motion. Steven Spielberg expressed an interest in getting involved, but the Japanese studio went bust trying to fund the project. After all, giant robots don't come cheap.

19

The gist: Malice in Lewis Carroll's Wonderland – although not the 2009 film of the same name!

Based on the 2000 horror game American McGee's Alice – a nightmarish take on Alice In Wonderland – Alice was to be directed by Wes Craven and star Sarah Michelle Gellar as the heroine, but insane legal tangles held up filming, with the rights to Alice bouncing between three different studios. In the meantime, Tim Burton's Alice In Wonderland came out – yes, it was terrible, but it was there first.

The gist: Enormous game franchise gets transformed into big-screen cash cow!

Given the popularity of the Halo sore-thumb series (2012's Halo 4 made £200m in its first week of release) and the fact that it's already pretty flipping cinematic, you'd think a movie adaptation would be a no-brainer. Produced by Peter Jackson and directed by Neill "District 9" Blomkamp, the 2008 big-screen adaptation was rolling along nicely – until endless interference from Microsoft, owners of Halo, led to Blomkamp dropping out. However, Halo will now see the light of day as a Steven Spielberg-headed TV series, for the Xbox One TV channel. Hurrah!

22

Who Discovered Roger Rabbit? 1990

The gist: Wacky cartoon bunny Roger Rabbit takes on Adolf Hitler!

This prequel to the massively successful Bob Hoskins comedy Who Framed Roger Rabbit? was going to show Roger's rise to cartoon fame, his romancing of buxom toon babe Jessica Rabbit, and his decisive role in the Second World War. However, Steven Spielberg – who oversaw the first movie – was working on the ever-so-slightly more serious Schindler's List at the time, which put him off using Nazis as "comedy villains" ever again, sending Roger Rabbit 2 into a tailspin that it was never able to recover from. X

KARL PILKINGTON!

The grumpy uncle of British telly sets the world to rights for Nuts!

H ello Karl! What wonderful adventures have you been up to?

Hello. I've been filming a new series for Sky1 called The Moaning Of Life. In the last three months I've been to LA, Vegas, Tokyo, Cape Town, Johannesburg, Bali, New Delhi, and Bangalore. I get through loads of passports, partly because they just don't put enough pages in them. I think you get more pages in a Mr Men book.

You're always frowning. What was the last thing that made you really annoyed?

A bottle of lemon environmentally friendly toilet cleaner that my girlfriend Suzanne bought. It didn't shift anything. It has a label saying it saves dolphins, which is all very good, but it doesn't shift a stubborn stain from a U-bend, so what's the point? It's so weak that the label doesn't even warn you not to drink it.

What would you put in Room 101?

Where is this Room 101 that everyone talks about? I wish it did exist as it's hard to get rid of your sh*t these days. The bin men are getting more and more fussy about what they're happy to take away and you're not allowed to set fire to stuff in your garden. I'm sure this is why there's loads and loads of charity shops on the high streets. They're the only place you can drop stuff off where no one questions it.

When you were younger, did you ever think you'd have your own telly show?

Nah. And if someone told me that I would, I'd have been terrified. Saying that, getting on the telly was harder when I was younger as there were only three channels. Now, any nobhead can get on. I reckon soon there'll be a programme about people who haven't been on the telly.

What did you think you'd become when you were growing up?

I had no idea. I never thought about it. I just knew I had to get a job to earn money. The only work experience I had before I left school was being a shepherd in the Christmas nativity play and I didn't fancy continuing that, so I took whatever came along.

How much is the Karl Pilkington we see on TV an act to make you look daft?

None of it's an act. But in telly they record loads of stuff and use the best bits. I don't constantly walk about moaning about stuff. You know Chris Tarrant doesn't always walk about asking people questions, don't you? Gordon Ramsay isn't effing and blinding about burnt Yorkshire puddings 24 hours a day. I go away for a week and they make a 45-minute programme out of it.

So when you go to weddings or parties now, do you just get loads of people asking you to say something priceless?

I don't go to stuff like that. One of the reasons for doing a new series for Sky was to get out of going to my girlfriend's brother's wedding. I'm not very sociable and don't know that many people. The only person who calls me is a bloke asking if I want my PPI back.

How rich is Ricky Gervais?

I've no idea. I don't think he has that much though, as he's always working.

Has he made you a millionaire?

Listen, anyone can be a millionaire these days. Just go to Zimbabwe and exchange your money. A loaf costs 16 million. There's some story about a bloke who went for a bottle of milk there and had to go to the shop with a wheelbarrow to carry the money. If there's one place that needs chip and pin, it's there.

What car do you drive?

A seven-year-old one. I'm not arsed about cars. It's just as well as when you're on the telly, for some reason, your insurance goes through the roof. What's odd is that I know Warwick Davis really well as he went travelling with me on the last programme. He pays less than me for car insurance! How can that be? Nothing against the man, but he's a dwarf! It doesn't make sense. It wouldn't surprise me if Stevie Wonder was getting a better deal than me.

Amazing! Who properly makes you laugh?

I laughed two nights ago watching Bullseye on Challenge. It was a fund-raising episode. It was funny as it was the same sh*t prizes they always give away but Jim [Bowen, the host] changed the description to make them fit charities. So they won a vacuum cleaner and Jim said, "You've won the hospital a vac so they can keep the hospital nice and clean!" It made me laugh.

Which new subject would you introduce in schools?

A general knowledge quiz at the end of the week with a £5 prize. Questions on the week's news. It's fine learning French, but kids struggle knowing who the Prime Minister is these days.

How often do you get fan mail from lady-folk?

All the time. They're mainly asking for a signed photo for their fella.

You made us laugh in Derek. Do you plan to do some more acting?

I was hardly acting, was I? I gave it a go, but it's not really for me. Luckily, Ricky let me ad lib bits – as long as it was close to what I was meant to be saying. My memory's rubbish so there's no way I can do word-for-word stuff. I doubt other directors would put up with that.

What if you got offered a part in Downton Abbey as a mardy butler?

Well, if they ever need a character who's bald and northern and can't read a script, I'm their man!

Thanks for the chinwag, Karl! Finally, what's the best thing about being British?

Sunday dinner has to be up there. I dunno what else. I've never thought about it. I'm British 'cos I was born here. I didn't have much to do with it. If my dad's b*lllocks were in Spain, I'd be Spanish and would probably be as happy Spanish as I am being British.

I Lucy! How's it going?
Hello! I'm fantastic. Hopefully, it'll get a bit sunnier now summer's here!

How have you enjoyed this hugely booby shoot today?

It's been splendid. There are lots of lovely boobies to look at, and it's great to finally get my hands on them. Do I have a favourite pair? No – they're all equally beautiful!

Do you ever see a really great pair of boobs and think, "Blimey, I'd love those"?

Yes! When I see small, perfectly formed, pert boobs, I want those. Believe it or not, having big boobs is such a pain. It's great for my job, but not very practical.

Have you bought any cheeky treats for summer?

Not yet, but I plan on going shopping very soon. I went on the Ann Summers website yesterday to buy myself some sexy new undies. I like classic, plain black undies. You might find a bit of lace in my drawers if you're lucky.

Cracking! So, you're very much a boob idol yourself, but who do you look up to?

There are a lot of people I admire for different reasons. One of them is Beyoncé. I absolutely love that woman.

Do you have a girl crush?

I have loads! My taste changes a lot. I'm a fickle plastic lesbian. Ha-ha! At the moment, it's all about Lily Aldridge.

Do you ever have kinky dreams about her?

Yes, but I'm not about to tell you them!

What's the strangest request you've had on Twitter recently?

I get some very odd requests. I couldn't even repeat them! ▶

“There’s no point going away if I can’t sunbathe topless!”

Let's just say there are some people out there who really shouldn't be allowed access to social networking sites.

More importantly, now that summer's here, do you have any plans to go skinny dipping?

No, because I get too cold. Plus, I can't swim. With these boobs, you'd think I'd float, but no. I sink like a stone. I like topless sunbathing – otherwise I get awful tan lines. When I was booking my holiday I was very selective, because in some places you're not allowed to go topless. So what's the point of me going there?

When you're sunbathing, is it obvious when a guy's having a sneaky peek at your boobs?

Not to me, because if I'm not reading a book, I usually nod off. Anything could happen around me and I wouldn't know about it until I woke up.

What have you got coming up that you're excited about?

I'm going to Wireless. That's going to be fantastic, although I hear it's quite a tame festival.

What's your summer tipple?

Pimm's at the moment, because the sun is finally out. I haven't had any crazy sessions for a while now. I must be getting very good at moderating myself. I know when it's time to go home!

What was the last thing that really made you laugh?

My dog, Thierry! He's a little French bulldog, and he's the funniest dog in the world.

Apparently, being funny is a turn-on. Is this true?

Yes, to an extent. You certainly need a connection. To be with a partner, you need the same kind of sense of humour.

Finally, do you have any weird celebrity crushes?

Yep, I do. It's Ricky Gervais. Although, I don't actually fancy him. There's just something about him. I think if we knew each other, we'd be friends. ►

“I flashed a load of people on a bus
the other day!”

Stacey Poole

Hi Stacey! How's your day of boobs been? I've really enjoyed myself. The selection of girls we have is great. We're all curvy and complement each other perfectly!

Do you ever get boob envy on a big shoot like this?

Yes, all the time. I've been on loads of Nuts shoots, and I've always been the one with the biggest boobs – until now! I'm not used to not having the biggest ones.

When you're on a shoot, do you ever get the urge to have a quick fondle of your fellow boobmongers?

Yes. We always mess around and have a laugh. Sometimes we have the odd cheeky kiss!

Which are your favourite today?

Obviously, Lucy Pinder is the queen of glam, but I love all the Nuts girls. They're all so nice to work with and very hot.

What can a man do to make himself more appealing to you?

Being funny is a turn-on. Lots of guys look good but have no banter. That's just boring. If someone makes you laugh, you're obviously going to want to be around them more. I really like Lee Evans. His personality's great, but I don't think he's very attractive when he's sweating on stage.

When was the last time you flashed someone?

I was on a Nuts shoot a while ago, posing by this window, and a big bus of people drove past really slowly!

Awesome! Well, finally then, what do you want to achieve by the end of the year?

One thing that I haven't ticked off yet is doing my own Nuts cover. Hint, hint. Ha-ha! ▶

“I once got naked in a royal palace!”

Lucy Collett

Hey Lucy! How's our favourite booby redhead? I'm very well, thanks. Apart from the fact that Pookie, my chameleon, went and died on me.

Oh no! May she rest in peace. How have you enjoyed today's boobathon?

It's been awesome! I love getting all baby-oiled up. At one point I had to hold Stacey's boobs up for her – they're the heaviest things ever.

Of the three other girls on the shoot today, who would you most like to be marooned on a desert island with?

Jessica Davies, because she's new and fresh. The moment I saw her, I couldn't wait to see her boobs. I was thinking, "Get them out, get them out!"

Are you going to any festivals this summer?

I want to rock out at Download. The line-up is amazing – Slipknot, Iron Maiden, Bullet For My Valentine and Papa Roach. It's going to be intense!

Can you recommend some new music too us?

I saw a band called Don Broco recently. One of their tunes was playing on The Valleys the other night!

When was the last time you accidentally flashed someone?

Accidentally? There are no such things as accidents!

Do you give your boobs any special attention?

Of course! If you give them a little rub every day, they stay nice and pert. If you ignore your boobs, they'll ignore you.

Great advice. Finally, then, what's the most amazing thing you've done recently?

I got naked in a royal palace. I should add that it was for a shoot, not for pleasure! ▶

Jessica Davies

Hello Jessica, how are you? I'm really great, thanks! I can't believe I'm shooting with Lucy Pinder. She's such a legend. I feel as if I've arrived!

Can you recall your first ever rude shoot?

Yes. It was a bit weird. I walked in and all these girls were sat around eating Domino's with their boobs out!

What a life! So how would you introduce yourself to the awesome readers of Nuts?

I'm just a normal girl who likes normal stuff. I go to uni, I have a part-time job in a country pub, and in my spare time I get drunk with my friends.

When was the last time you accidentally flashed someone?

The other day, and it was no accident! I was bored on the train so I took a quick photo of my boobs and sent them to my friend on Snapchat.

We must remember to get Snapchat. Have you booked your summer hols yet?

I'm going to Amsterdam for a mad one pretty soon. And I want to go somewhere random, like Bulgaria. I try to avoid the tourist traps.

When you go sunbathing, do you know when people are looking at your boobs?

Well, most people aren't exactly subtle about it. It's worse when I go to the sauna and everyone stares at me with their mouths open. I don't get it. Have they never seen a pair of knockers before?

Thanks Jessica! So finally, what can a man do to make himself more attractive?

Keep his hair looking good, but get rid of all his body hair. Ha-ha!

“When I go to the sauna, everyone stares at my boobs!”

SKY LIVING/HD • 10pm

Say what you like about this show, but by god, they know how to do macabre murder. In this one, Eddie Izzard pops up as a killer in a high-security hospital. Doesn't stop him doing unspeakable deathly things to a nurse, which leads authorities to believe he was the Chesapeake Ripper. Will Graham thinks otherwise.

SUPER TORNADO

• 11.35pm

On May 20, one of the biggest ever tornados swept through the US state of Oklahoma causing mass devastation, killing more than 20 people and injuring hundreds of others. This is all about that monster twister.

The Apprentice

BBC ONE/HD • 9pm

It feels like a return to form for this series, if only because the buffoonery has been dialled right back up to 11. Tonight the boardroom o' berks have to sell products at a caravan show, and it all runs smoothly with the teams working like clockwork. Then Lord Sugar congratulates them on a job well done. We're kidding!

Con Air

BBC THREE • 9pm

Following The Rock on Saturday, here's another classic action movie starring Nicolas Cage. This time he plays a good-hearted convict on a hijacked transport plane full of particularly evil blokes, chief among them John Malkovich's psychotic Cyrus The Virus, and Steve Buscemi's hilariously jolly serial murderer.

ALIBI/HD • 9pm

No wonder cop Luther's a bit unhinged – as well as dealing with all manner of criminals, he has to do it in one of the gloomiest depictions of London we've ever seen. Of course, this only adds to the mood of one of the best crime dramas in recent years. Tonight, the stakes are raised in the search for an abducted woman.

Nuts Games Deal or No Deal masterclass!

A host of hot tips to help you win big with Nuts Games!

→ YOU MAY think Deal or No Deal is a game for people who believe in "systems". But take it from us – the multi-line slot game certainly isn't!

You can win big from the comfort of your own home for as little as 5p, and if you play on all 20 pay lines, you could win a big progressive jackpot. At the time of writing, this was £505,451.36 and could be even more by the time you read this, unless some lucky winner has won it! So visit nutsgames.co.uk and start playing now!

How to play

- The aim is to get winning symbol combinations from each spin of the reels, with the ultimate target being the progressive jackpot.
- You can select up to 20p on each of the 20 pay lines. That gives you up to 20 chances to win on each play!
- The progressive jackpot can only be won on the Deal or No Deal bonus game, but there are also two other fun bonus games called Banker's Offer and Mystery Box Bonus, where you can also win extra cash!

Number lines

Click the number beside the reels, or the "Bet One" or "Bet Max" button. Choose Bet Max for the chance to play the bonus game and win big!

Bonus game

If you bet on all 20 pay lines and get three Deal or No Deal bonus symbols on any pay line, the bonus game begins – this plays like the TV show, with the progressive jackpot at stake.

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Bianca

21 Bristol

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?

"That's easy. It was on holiday in Monte Carlo. Me and my boyfriend were visiting a beautiful cactus garden overlooking the amazing views, and the heat took over. People were walking by us, which added to the excitement. Luckily, I was wearing a pretty long dress, and me and my chap were stood as though we were on the Titanic. The rest I'll leave to your imagination!"

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"After a hot soapy bath, I smooth scented lotion all over my body, then I put on my sexy underwear and a long, silky dressing gown and go to bed. It's a great way to seduce a man, if he expects you to be asleep and you then give him an erotic striptease. I find the element of surprise is such a turn-on."

3 What really turns you on?

"Being naughty turns me on, and if I'm not supposed to be doing it, it makes it even hotter! It's exciting to get it on with a guy when you know you shouldn't and could be caught."

4 What's your favourite position?

"I have more than one. I love trying new positions, especially if a guy starts by kissing and caressing my neck slowly. I become uncontrollable! It drives me wild and sends shivers down my spine. There's just no turning back from that!"

5 Is it better to give or receive?

"I've always been a generous girl, but I'm also very happy to receive, too. It's always exciting to try new things and I love long massages. I've even been told I give the best massages ever. It's definitely one of the best ways to get in the mood."

6 Have you ever got it on with another girl?

"Not yet! But maybe with the help of Nuts I'll be able to do a sexy photo shoot with one of the stunning models, and who knows where that could lead?"

7 What's your sexy dress-up outfit of choice?

"Oh, that's definitely my police woman outfit. It's a short skirt and stockings, set off with stiletto heals. I've got my handcuffs at the ready to capture my naughty boy – and he can never resist me putting him under arrest!"

8 Have you ever made a rude video?

"Whoops, yes! I did, but it was on my phone and I lost it, so if any one of you guys finds it, please hand it over to PC Bianca, you naughty boy!"

9 What's the rudest thing you've done?

"While I was on the plane going on my hols, my fella and I decided to start our fun early and he followed me into the loo cubicle!"

10 Do girls engage in "alone time" as much as boys?

"Oh, definitely! That's when we discover our most sensitive and erotic zones. It's important to know your own body."

LADIES CONFESS! TO OUR SECRETARY!

Racy revelations from our female readers!

'History turned me on'

MY FELLA and I went to the Natural History Museum in London the other day. We really enjoyed it – learning about dinosaurs and fossils, and watching the T-Rex in 3D. It was a great day out. I watched as he pushed buttons, picked things up and strained his neck to read all the interesting stuff – he looked sexier than ever! I cheekily grabbed his crotch and gave him a sexy look. He didn't object, so I stuck my hand in his trousers and he was soon hard. We hid behind a cabinet in one of the rooms. Nothing beats the element of surprise!

Annie London

'My private viewing'

I'D BEEN looking at renting my own flat and after seeing some awful ones, I managed to find a lovely little place. The estate agent told me the owner would meet me there to go over some final details. When he arrived, I noticed he was extremely handsome and we both stood staring at each other for a minute or two. Composing ourselves, we began to talk about the flat, but I couldn't take my eyes off his muscular chest. He caught me perving, grinned and held out his hand. Before I knew it, we were kissing against the wardrobes. He pulled up my shirt and caressed my boobs, then he unbuttoned his trousers as I pulled down my jeans. He slipped his fingers inside me as I released his stiffy. The viewing lasted two hours!

Joy Liverpool

'I felt frisky in the car'

MY FRIEND had asked her dad to pick us up from the airport after a weekend in Ibiza, so when he turned up, he wasn't too happy to find me alone – my pal had been partying and missed her flight. Her brother was in the car and while the dad was shouting about his daughter, we started flirting with our eyes. The car vibrated and I shut my eyes, dreaming of my saucy holiday antics. I soon had my fingers on my jeans, pressing at my groin, getting hornier by the second. I undid my flies and started bringing myself off, only to catch the brother's face in the side mirror – looking shocked but very excited!

'My lasting impression'

MY NEW man took me home to meet his parents for the weekend and I was, of course, on my very best behaviour. I'd really won them over, especially his mum who has very high standards when it comes to any new girlfriends. About an hour before we left for our long drive back down to Essex, we were both just gagging to get our hands on each other. Thinking that his parents were still outside tending to their garden, the two of us nipped into the basement where we knew that they wouldn't be able to hear us. It wasn't long before we were having sex against the tumble dryer but, halfway through, as I was screaming for more, his mum walked in and caught us at it! Strangely, I haven't been invited back since.

Tuffers' guide to the Champions Trophy!

The England legend gives his verdict on the eight-nation tear-up!

THIS WEEK

sees the start of the ICC Champions Trophy, a series of 50-over slogfests between the world's top eight teams. Phil Tufnell runs the rule over them!

- The Champions Trophy is on Sky Sports/HD between 6 and 23 June.

"OK, wasp – do your worst!"

ENGLAND

"England have got to be one of the favourites. Our bowling attack will enjoy themselves in home conditions, and obviously they're on a bit of a roll at the moment. England will want to prove themselves – they've never won a major 50-over trophy. But the bowling attack is strong – one of the best in the world – and they have several good young batsmen."

DANGER MAN

"I like the look of Jos Buttler – he'll make a big impact."

"Urgh! A big gooey marshmallow – get it away from me!"

SOUTH AFRICA

"They're going to be tough. They have a top bowling line-up and plenty of experience in the batting. And they like it over here as well. They have the top two one-day batsmen in the world in AB de Villiers and Hashim Amla, and three bowlers in the top ten in Lonwabo Tsotsobe, Albie Morkel and Dale Steyn. Morkel and Steyn are great wicket-takers. They're a good, tough rugged outfit."

DANGER MAN

"AB De Villiers is the No.1 batsman in the one-day game."

"Roll up, roll up – only two items left in the raffle!"

AUSTRALIA

"I'm not inclined to agree with all the people who are writing Australia off. They're still, when it all comes down to it, Australia. They have batsmen like David Warner, who can give the ball a good smack, Shane Watson is a great all-rounder, and captain Michael Clarke is in the form of his life. I think they'll make it as far as the semi-finals."

DANGER MAN

"Shane Watson is impossible to ignore."

"Sir, sir! Can I go the toilet, please?"

PAKISTAN

"They're a real wild-card – you just never know which Pakistan are going to turn up. They're absolutely full of explosive hitters and bowlers with lots of tricks and guile, like little spinner Saeed Ajmal. But the problem is, I just don't think what they're going to bring to the table is necessarily going to be what's needed to work in English conditions."

DANGER MAN

"Spinner Saeed Ajmal has a ton of one-day wickets."

NEW ZEALAND

"New Zealand will be very competitive and enthusiastic but I think they'll come up short. Their batting will let them down – they have a useful, workmanlike bowling attack but they lack that explosiveness in the batting department. They're very dependent on batsmen Ross Taylor and Brendon McCullum [above]. They're the side's real game-changers."

DANGER MAN

"Pick one from Ross Taylor or Brendon McCullum."

INDIA

"They're going through a few changes and the old guard of Sachin Tendulkar and Virender Sehwag has been dismantled somewhat. Like Sri Lanka, they're more used to playing on Subcontinent pitches and may struggle with the swinging ball. They're ranked No.1 in the world but they lack that fear factor, and they look weak in the bowling department, Ravichandran Ashwin aside."

DANGER MAN

"On his day, MS Dhoni can absolutely marmalise you."

SRI LANKA

"Sri Lanka are a very useful side in this format of the game. They've made the one-day game their own over the years and have a tradition of being a difficult team to beat. They have miserly spinners and inventive batsmen. I just think they're going through a transitional period at the moment, and I think they'll find the English conditions quite hard to adjust to."

"Left-hander Thisara Perera can give it a good hiding."

WEST INDIES

"The West Indies are my other team to watch out for in this tournament, along with England. They've a side full of all-rounders, and have some really huge hitters in Chris Gayle, Dwayne Bravo and Kieron Pollard. Their bowling attack is pretty decent as well, but it's the power, strength and depth in that batting line-up that really makes the mouth water."

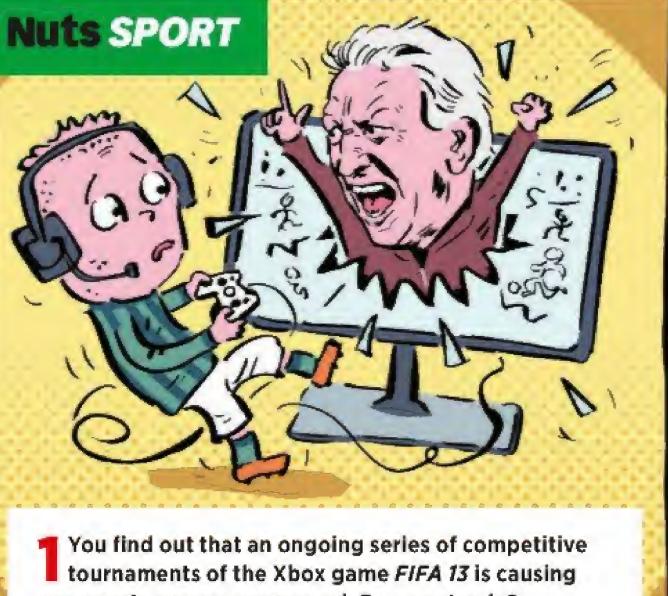

DANGER MAN

"Chris Gayle can hit the ball for absolutely miles."

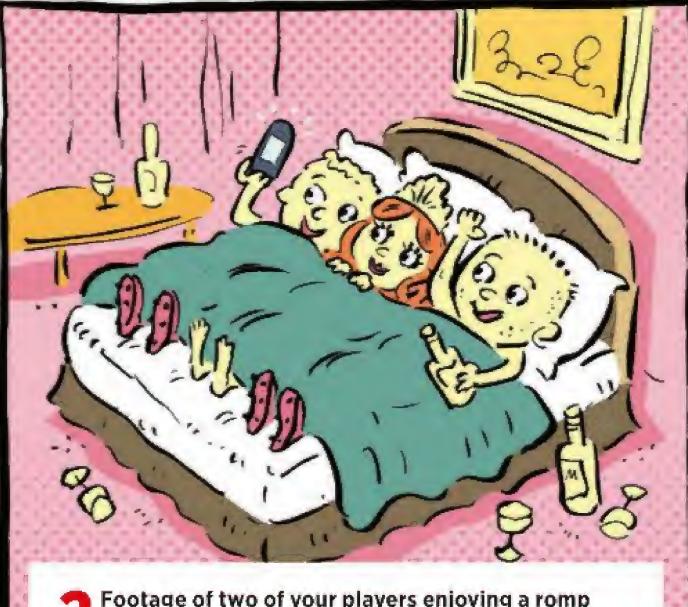

Tuffers' verdict!

"I'm going to predict that the final will see hosts ENGLAND taking on the WEST INDIES. England's starting line-up is settled – it's almost their Test side – and I think they'll prevail because of that. The Windies, like England, seem very together and are pulling for each other, but in my opinion, it's going to be England to shade it."

1 You find out that an ongoing series of competitive tournaments of the Xbox game FIFA 13 is causing arguments among your squad. Do you step in?

"I'd just tell them to grow up! There's a lot of this going off with the new lads, but I think Xbox games and all that are alright for the long bus journeys. I'd rather have them doing that than card schools – they used to cause some proper animosity. One lad at Hartlepool chucked his car keys in just to see someone at poker! Mind you, it was only a Ford Anglia."

2 Footage of two of your players enjoying a romp with a local beauty queen has found its way onto the internet. Rather than find it hilarious, they're both mortified. Do you punish them further?

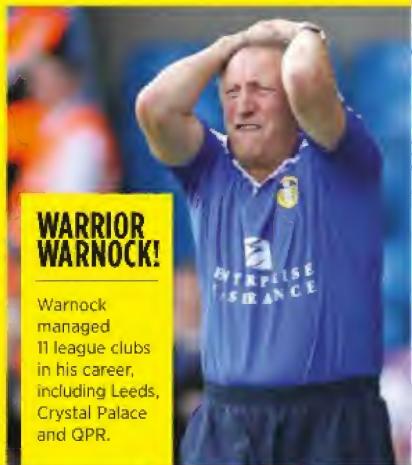

"I don't think I want to talk about that one, if I'm honest. I know what I'd do, but I don't think I can put it in writing!"

Neil Warnock's Managerial Masterclass!

The veteran boss talks us through the everyday problems of running a footy team!

→ NEIL WARNOCK's a man who knows a bit about management and in his new book, he reveals what he's learned about life in the hot seat. Nuts posed him a few all-too-plausible scenarios...

• The Gaffer: The Trials And Tribulations Of A Football Manager by Neil Warnock (Headline Books) is out on 6 June.

WARRIOR WARNOCK!

Warnock managed 11 league clubs in his career, including Leeds, Crystal Palace and QPR.

5 Before a key cup game, the opposing manager makes disparaging remarks about you, referring to you as "that fella Nigel Warnock". Do you respond?

"No, I think when people criticise you it's almost revealing their respect. It's like with the fans – I'm disappointed if I turn up at a ground and I'm not being shouted at and called rude names. That wouldn't worry me at all, it would please me and motivate me and tell me he has a lot of things on his mind and I'm one of them. I've been called a lot worse than Nigel!"

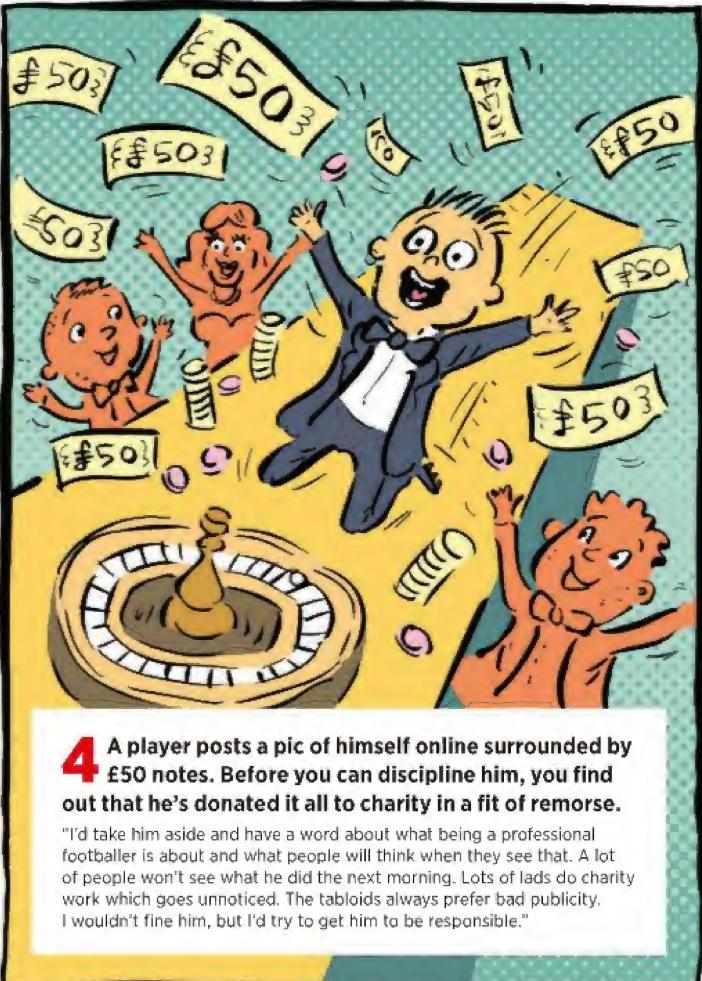

6 You know one of your strikers is enjoying the nightlife a bit too much, but he's still producing the goods. Do you intervene or just let it continue?

"If he's not bringing the club into disrepute and he's playing well, he can do what he wants! I had a player who smoked 30 fags a day and downed two or three pints in the evening, and he won the Player Of The Season award. Perform in a match, don't shame the club – I'm not bothered. You can advise people on how to look after themselves, you can't tell them."

3 A player says on Twitter that you're an idiot and don't know what you're doing. He later tweets that he's sorry, but his account was hacked. Do you punish him?

"Whatever I did, it would be done in my office, one on one, face to face. That way I'd know. I'm not a fan of Twitter. For managers, it's nothing but trouble. All Twitter does is bring a certain breed of fans closer to the players. It's just like radio phone-ins. And I'll never understand why anyone would want to know I've had egg and bacon for my breakfast."

4 A player posts a pic of himself online surrounded by £50 notes. Before you can discipline him, you find out that he's donated it all to charity in a fit of remorse.

"I'd take him aside and have a word about what being a professional footballer is about and what people will think when they see that. A lot of people won't see what he did the next morning. Lots of lads do charity work which goes unnoticed. The tabloids always prefer bad publicity. I wouldn't fine him, but I'd try to get him to be responsible."

7 A player has been out of form for weeks, then news breaks he's run up debts on a gambling site who are to be the club's next shirt sponsors. What do you do?

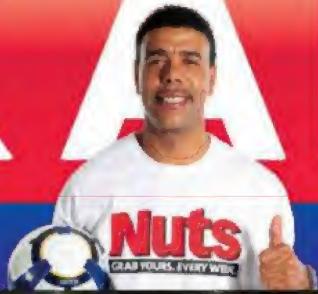

"I'd get some help for the lad. I've had problems with players who've run up gambling debts. It's an illness. These lads have a lot of money and time on their hands. We can't take our foot off the gas educating them about gambling – with all this 'bet in play' stuff, it's almost non-stop. The PFA need to keep a grip on it, and big gambling firms need to help too."

8 Someone leaves a poo in the dressing room of your local rivals before a huge cup game. You discover later it was one of your star players. What do you do?

"Oh God! I'd fire them, personally. It's absolutely disgusting – that's the lowest of the low, the equivalent of someone spitting at you on the pitch. It's the worst thing you can do. I mean, there are tricks you can do, like turning up the heating in summer so it's blasting out and they can't turn it off. Everyone used to do all sorts – but not that!"

KAMMY!

He's the voice of the fans – and he's only in Nuts!

"Hold on, Lamps
– you've left a label on your shirt"

England got it all wrong against Ireland!

They had a chance to put on a Wembley show, but they blew it!

ENGLAND'S PERFORMANCE against the Republic of Ireland summed up in one word – disappointment. It wasn't a disastrous disappointment, but they just didn't try to play. It was a fantastic opportunity to say to the goalkeepers, "Don't kick any long balls. Let's roll the ball out and play from the back. Let's really try to play football. Let's not get into an English game where we kick it long and they kick it long back." When England played Brazil at Wembley in February, they played it out from the back, passed it around and looked decent.

I'm not going to take anything away from Ireland – they played well, but they wanted that game played in the manner in which it was played, and it suited them down to the ground.

I think, in a sense, the Ireland game was very much a case of "after the Lord Mayor's show." It's been a long hard season, but there should still be something left in the tank inspired by the pride and passion of playing for England. I heard a lot of talk about how the players will have been tired, but I don't think that football at international level works like that. They should have been in the frame of mind to put on a show.

People were asking afterwards where the spark was, but I have every confidence that by the time you get to read this, that will have returned for the Brazil game – I'm writing my column on Friday, you understand! – and the disappointment of the Republic of Ireland game will be consigned to memory.

Stoke fans should give Sparky a chance!

Hughes appointment could easily work out!

→ I'VE BEEN the Stoke manager. I only lasted for 14 games – this may have had something to do with the fact I only won one game!

Mark Hughes' record at QPR was as dire as mine was when I was Stoke boss, but you never know in football – management's about being in the right place at the right time, finding a mix of players you gel with, and making sure you're comfortable and have the right people work with you.

Hughesy can bring in new players and can get the team playing his way before the season starts, so it's very much a case of "wait and see" regarding how he'll do. There are some very talented players at Stoke who'll benefit from getting that ball down and passing it around.

"An extra tenner for the lettering? On your bike!"

ASK KAMMY!

"If you were still a manager, which piece of music would you use before a match to psych up your players?"

NICK via Twitter

Well, there can be only one song, really. It's by EMF, it's from 1990 and it's called – wait for it – Unbelievable!

"Who is the fellow who appears with you in all those television adverts?"

PAT via Twitter

His name's Tiziano Crudelli and he's a huge fan of AC Milan. I've been staying at the same hotel as him recently while we filmed some new adverts, and I've got to know him, got to know his thoughts on Italian football and whatnot. He's a good fella!

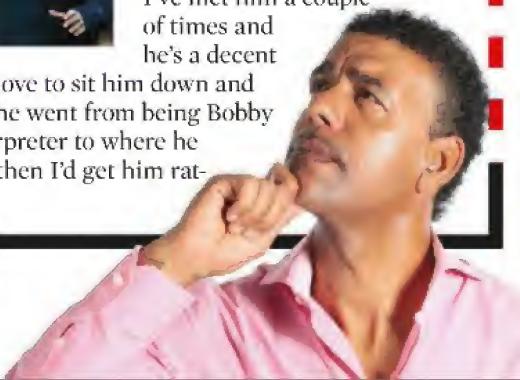

"Who within the game would you most like to spend an afternoon in the pub with?"

MUNRO via Twitter

Ha-ha! That would be Jose Mourinho, no ifs or buts. I've met him a couple of times and he's a decent chap, and I'd love to sit him down and ask him how he went from being Bobby Robson's interpreter to where he is today. And then I'd get him rat-arsed drunk!

Sorry, Daniel – I'll get your name right eventually!

LAST WEEK, I did an event for Vauxhall with Wayne Rooney, Frank Lampard, Daniel Sturridge and England women's footballers Sophie Bradley and Jill Scott.

We did a bunch of both football-related and non-football-related games. It was a good laugh and the overall winner was Frank Lampard.

I personally had a bloody nightmare. Former footballer Dean Sturridge works with me at Sky, and is also Daniel's uncle, and I ended up doing exactly what I've done before when I've commentated on Chelsea and Liverpool games and calling Daniel "Dean", over and over again! He must have thought I was having a laugh and he was saying, "Kammy, call me Studger!"

He thought I was taking the mick. I had to explain my brain's not what it used to be!

DeGale: 'I'll fight anybody!'

Mr Fisticuffs on his upcoming fight, having false teeth and doing I'm A Celebrity!

INTERVIEW: NICK WATKINS
PHOTOS: ACTION IMAGES, GETTY IMAGES

→ Hi James! You only fought a few weeks ago when you beat Sebastien Demers. Why are you fighting again so quickly?
Well, I just had that fight over in Canada but it was fairly straightforward so I want to get back in the ring as quickly as possible. This fight was in place and even though it's short notice, I'm feeling confident and I'm super-fit.

You're defending your WBC Silver super-middleweight title against Croat Stjepan Bozic. Is this going to be easy?

I'll box whoever's put in front of me. He's not got a bad record and he's boxed for a world title, but I should beat him. This is a stepping stone for me to get the world title.

Do you think this is the year you get the world title shot?

Yeah, if I keep boxing regularly and keep my form up, I'm going to be hard to beat. This will be the year I'll be fighting for a world title – that's the plan. I want four fights this year after this one.

Did you watch Froch vs Kessler?
Yeah, I saw it. It was an amazing fight – two warriors really going at it. I'm glad Froch won. I'm looking to fight him in the future. If he's looking for opponents, I'm here. He doesn't need to be looking for fighters abroad!

Is it true you fight with false teeth in?

Ha-ha! Well, that was true as I used to have a denture. I've got some permanent front teeth in there now though.

Audley Harrison is back again after 20 days' retirement. Do you think you could beat him despite the weight difference?

I think I probably could. He's not a bad technical fighter but he just doesn't have the heart. I've always said Harrison has the skills to pay the bills but not the heart to play the part. That's the truth. I wish him the best of luck though. He obviously feels he's got something left.

Do you ever talk to your opponents during a fight?

I used to, but I don't tend to do that any more. I'm more focused on getting the job done nowadays.

Thanks, James! Finally, if you had to be a contestant on a reality show, which would it be?

Well, David Haye did well in the jungle so maybe I'm A Celebrity. I'd consider it when I retire – it looks like a laugh. I'd be good at the tasks in the jungle, but just not eating kangaroo b*lls – my false teeth couldn't handle that!

- Tune in live on Channel 5/HD from Glow, Bluewater at 9.30pm, 8 June.
